- i. The number next to the name of a municipality indicates the designation by the Municipal Demarcation Board of that municipality, such as EC157.
- ii. The type of municipality indicates the structure of executive power in the relevant municipal council, such as by way of an executive mayor or executive committee.
- iii. Disestablished municipalities refer to the municipalities that existed during the interim phase (1995-2000) in the area of the "new" municipality. Due to the manner in which the establishment notices of the "new" municipalities were drafted it is not possible to indicate the specific "old" municipalities within the area of the "new" municipalities in all cases. In such cases all disestablished municipalities are listed under the relevant district municipality. It should also be noted that portions of "old" municipalities may now be part of more than one "new" municipality. However, an indication of the principle town in the area of the "new" municipality can be ascertained by referring to the address column of the relevant municipality.
- iv. A municipal manager was previously known as a Town Clerk or Chief Executive Officer.
- v. Although care was taken in compiling the information contained in this document, the Department does not accept responsibility for any errors, as information has been compiled at face value from various sources. The Department can also not be held liable for any damages as a result of any actions taken based on the information contained in this document.
- vi. E. & O. E.
- vii. You are kindly requested to bring any errors or changes to the attention of the Department of Cooperative Governance.
- viii. An additional resource of municipal information, including detailed demographic information, is the Municipal Demarcation Board. Go to www.demarcation.org.za Then click on "municipal profiles". Then select the province and municipality you would like to obtain information about. The information will then be displayed.
